Conservatives Upset Labor in British Elections

WILSON SLAKES THIRST

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson conceded today that Conservative party leader Edward Heath apparently had won the British election. The Conservative upset confounded weeks of polls saying Wilson's Labor Party would win.

Wilson said a revolt by housewives angered at rising prices may have helped to defeat him.

"It is now likely the Conservatives will have an absolute majority," Wilson told a television interviewer. Asked if he had given up hope, he said, "The figures speak for themselves."

With results in from more than two-thirds of the nation's 630 parliamentary districts, Heath was hailed by press, television and most politicians as Britain's next prime minister.

It was the biggest political upset in Britain since Clement Atlee upset Winston S. Churchill shortly after World War II.

Wilson arrived at his No. 10 Downing Street residence early today after a four-hour drive from his constituency at Huyton, near Liverpool. He looked pale, and weary and spoke slowly and without his usual bounce.

He said when Heath takes over, "He will have the strongest economic position any prime minister could wish for."

The economy was one of the biggest points Heath made in the campaign. The white-haired Conservative leader said Britain's economic position was poor and he hammered again and again on high prices and low exports.

A Conservative administration was not expected to change Britain's stance in world affairs radically. Both the Conservatives and Laborites were committed for instance to supporting the U.S. role in Southeast Asia.

Labor has governed since 1964.

The first step after Wilson's resignation would be for the queen to summon Heath to Buckingham Palace and invite him to form a new government. She would do so on the "advice" from Wilson as outgoing prime minister.

Until the last minute, all Britain's opinion polls had predicted a victory for Labor. Some polls predicted a Labor landslide.

The experts were divided as to why the voters turned against Wilson, whose party took over in 1964. Some said it was the housewives who turned the tide. Heath had hammered away on the theme of skyrocketing food prices.

Laborite Home Secretary James Callaghan and Harry Nichols, general secretary of the Labor Party, both blamed what they called "the devaluation scare."

It was a reference to warnings by Heath that if Labor stayed in office, Britain might well have to devalue the pound again. It was devalued in November, 1967 from $2.80 to $2.40.

Reds Step Up Attacks in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (AP) — A powerful North Vietnamese-Viet Cong force attacked a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh today and pushed to within 200 yards of major government strong points, the Cambodian high command said.

Moving behind a mortar barrage, the Communists struck Kompong Thom just after midnight. The Cambodian air force sent fighter-bombers into action at dawn. Latest reports said fighting was continuing and that the attackers were getting reinforcements.

Kompong Thom, on the road between Phnom Penh and the Angkor region in northwestern Cambodia, has been under almost constant enemy pressure for more than a month.

Cambodian spokesmen say Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces have occupied most of Angkor, the site of the 12th century temple ruins that are Cambodia's greatest national treasure. There has been speculation that the Communists might try to set up a revolutionary capital in the ancient city.

There was no word on casualties in the fighting at Kompong Thom, but the Cambodian high command claimed today that its forces have killed more than 6,000 Communist troops in the three-month-old Cambodian war. In addition, more than 11,000 enemy troops have been reported killed by the U.S. and South Vietnamese forces operating in Cambodia's eastern provinces.

But enemy pressure on the country as a whole has never been greater. The high command said that in view of the worsening situation, Premier Lon Nol's government has asked the United States for helicopters and a wide range of other military equipment. Washington has not replied, a spokesman said.

Enemy forces, by blocking roads and railroads, have almost isolated the Cambodian capital. By today, only one provincial capital could be reached from Phnom Penh on what was officially called a safe road.

The Senate has agreed to start night sessions next week in an effort to resolve the legislative impasse created by the month and a half debate on U.S. policy in Cambodia. Story on page 4.

Cambodia's railroad link to Thailand remained closed today as government troops swept along the track trying to clear out enemy forces.

Highway 1 between Phnom Penh and Saigon was reported reopened this morning after being cut Thursday afternoon by enemy troops who mined the route. Highway 4, the route between Phnom Penh and the port city of Kompong Som, remained closed.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command reported light skirmishing between allied and enemy troops along the border areas of Cambodia.

The command announced that the American death toll in all Cambodian operations had reached 300 since April 29, when the first Americans crossed the border.

Three Americans were killed and four wounded in the ambush of a 25th Infantry Division armored unit just west of the Fishhook area today, the command said. Enemy losses were not known.

More than 60 Viet Cong and South Vietnamese were reported slain in scattered fighting in South Vietnam, 38 of them by aircraft supporting ground forces or on independent missions. One American was reported killed and 26 wounded.

In Vientiane, the Laotian capital, a Defense Ministry spokesman said government forces retook the town of Pak Khop, 180 miles northwest of the capital and 15 miles east of the Thai border. It is also 37 miles west of Pakbeng, where a road built by the Chinese Communists reaches the Mekong River.

The spokesman, Gen. Thongphanh Khosy, also said that North Vietnamese troops overran two government outposts 25 miles north of the royal capital, Luang Prabang.

Price Souphanouvong, head of the Pathet Lao, has appealed to his half-brother, Premier Souvanna Phouma, to join with the Communists to end the fighting in their kingdom.

"Lao patriots cannot remain indifferent before the danger of an enlarged war provoked in their beloved fatherland by the U.S. imperialists and their lackeys," wrote the "Red Prince" to the neutralist brother. The letter was broadcast by Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency.

A Thai military spokesman in Saigon said today that Thailand's prime minister, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, today flew to Bearcat, the Thai base 20 miles from Saigon, and inspected troops of his country's Black Panther Division.

The spokesman said he did not know if Thanom conferred with South Vietnamese leaders before returning to Bangkok. Plans have been reported under way to transfer some of the division to Cambodia to bolster government forces here.

The three-nation task force established by the Jakarta conference on Cambodia arrived in New Delhi today from Moscow. The team, made up of Japanese Deputy Foreign Minister Shibusaku Hogen, Indonesian Foreign Affairs Director general Anwar Sani and Malaysian Foreign Ministry Permanent Secretary Shafei Gazelle, was conferring today with an Indian Foreign Ministry team.

Hurricane Strikes Mohawk Valley Killing Two

By United Press International
A violent thunderstorm packing hurricane force winds slammed into the Rome-Utica area Thursday, causing at least two deaths.

Rome was struck first about 4:15 p.m. with winds recorded at 85 miles per hour and torrential rain — 1.8 inches within an hour and a half.

Utica was hit about 15-20 minutes later but, except for power outages, the city reported little damage. St. Luke's Hospital went on emergency power and requested that emergency patients go to other hospitals.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Albany said the violent storm was associated with a squall line that moved through parts of New York and Pennsylvania ahead of a cold front.

The line continued east from Rome and Utica, hitting other sections of the state less violently.

Power was knocked out in a portion of Saratoga Springs, leaving several thousand fans at Saratoga Harness track waiting for about an hour until lights on the course were restored. Authorities reported large hailstones fell in parts of Fulton County, while portions of Albany, Schenectady and Rensselaer County reported loud thunder and heavy rain but no serious problems.

Victims of the storm were Albert Pick, 65, of Westmoreland, and Nancy J. Wagner, 33, of Poland.

Pick was found draped over a barbed wire fence that had become electrified by a fallen power line near his home. Miss Wagner had parked in a private driveway in the Herkimer County town of Newport when a large tree fell on her car.

In Rome, police reported at least three cars and the roofs of three houses were badly damaged by falling trees or tree limbs. Electrical lines were downed and most of the city, including the police station, was without power for hours.

Live power lines cracked at some intersections while three feet of water backed up behind clogged sewers. On North Washington Street, the wind blew off a tin roof from a two-story home.

A 300-foot high transmission tower for WKAL was toppled by the wind, causing no injuries, but putting the station off the air for a time.

A spokesman for Niagara Mohawk Power Co. said "thousands" of customers had no power in the two cities and outlying communities. He said it would "take at least a week" before all the damage was repaired and that extra crews were sent into the Rome-Utica area to aid the work.

Suburban areas were badly hit. The Herkimer barracks of state police said several people thought that a tornado had touched down, but the weather bureau said this could not be confirmed.

"It was just a violent thunderstorm," a spokesman for the bureau said in Albany.

Route 28, from Herkimer through Poland, and Route 29 in the town of Fairfield were both closed for a time due to flooding and fallen trees. State police reported a "large number" of motorists stranded in their cars, and many homes with flooded cellars.

At least two trailers at the Sportsman Trailer Park in the town of Newport, just east of Utica, were blown off their foundations, police said. Near Griffiss Air Force Base in Rome, a 55-foot long trailer belonging to Sgt. Kirby Miller, was blown onto its side. Miller, his wife and two children, had to be aided out by firemen.

A spokesman for Griffiss said the base suffered no notable damage but a "few trees and wires were down."

The squalls had moved into western Massachusetts by late evening, raining out an Eastern League game between the Pittsfield Senators and Manchester Yankees.

Dutchess Woman Charged With Murder of Her Husband

By WALTER S. CLARK

STAATSBURG
A 51-year-old Northern Dutchess County woman was taken into custody early today by State Police charged with murder in the shooting death of her 26-year-old husband, in their trailer residence on Mountain View Road in this community.

BCI officers said Sophia Gaylord Coleman was accused of shooting George Coleman six times in the body with a .22 caliber revolver shortly after midnight during a quarrel, the nature of which was not revealed by authorities. Coleman was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. William G. Thompson of Rhinebeck, an assistant county medical examiner, who ordered the body removed to St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie for an autopsy.

Mrs. Coleman was arraigned before Hyde Park Town Justice Harold Mangold, with First Assistant District Attorney Dennis McClure also appearing. The defendant was committed to the county jail in lieu of $25,000 bail and hearing was adjourned until June 23.

Authorities disclosed that the woman allegedly fired six shots into the victim's body.

Coleman was employed locally as a well driller. His wife is a silk screen printer employed by a Rhinebeck electrical firm.

Captain R. E. Boland of the BCI directed the investigation with McClure. They were assisted by Senior Investigator J. J. Conway, BCI Officers Frank Hallock, Richard Cobey and David Harrison and a uniformed detail of Rhinebeck troopers.

Meanwhile, State Police of Troop F in Ulster County continued investigation of the murder of 31-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Blaustein of Allgerville, who authorities said was fatally shot on a lonely section of Route 209 near Kyserville Road on the early morning of June 1.

Accused of murder in the woman's death is 29-year-old Rodney Arnold of Kerhonkson, the father of three children and a guard at the Catskill Reformatory in Napanoch.

Arnold was described as "doing fine" today at Kingston Hospital where he is under treatment for a bullet wound of the head which authorities said was apparently self-inflicted. A hospital spokesman said the accused man had been removed from the intensive care unit several days ago.

Approval Sought for Infirmary Water Tower

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON County officials met with the Kingston Water Board Thursday night at city hall seeking approval of a new $278,000 water tower complex for the proposed county infirmary on Golden Hill. Tentative approval from the city was expected by July 9.

Christus J. Larios, consulting engineer of the firm of Brinnier and Larios, outlined the problem and the proposal to those in attendance.

The problem is fire protection. Present facilities are apparently sufficient to provide the 200-gallon per minute flow of water for what Larios termed domestic service. However, fire underwriters demand a minimum water flow of approximately 2,000 gallons per minute.

Various solutions to the problem were proposed by Larios, one of which, a proposal to run a new 16-inch line from the Pearl Street water tank to the infirmary, was rejected (by Larios) as too costly.

Larios proposed the erection of a 107-foot water tank holding some 50,000 gallons of water on Golden Hill. This would supply the needed water for fire protection of both the proposed infirmary and jail and any other buildings the county might construct on its 75-acre site in the future such as a new court house.

The system would make use of the city's Glen Street tank now used mainly as a standby for emergency fire protection. The water would be pumped into the Glen Street tank and then on up into the new tank.

Edmond J. Cloonan, superintendent of water for the city, noted that alterations to the Glen Street pumps could cost the city as much as $20,000, a small item to the water department, he said.

Cloonan and Frank C. Sass, president of the water board, explained that the water board has revenues of some $500,000 a year derived solely from its 7,200 customers. "A $20,000 expenditure would be considered a major item in our budget," Sass told the county legislators, led by majority leader Douglas V. Dye of the town of Kingston. Sass also explained that if the water board were forced to float a bond for the money the Kingston Common Council would have to approve it.

Dye asked if approval of the Brinnier and Larios proposal were possible last night and was told that the water board would have to review the plans with its New York City consultants.

The board did say, however, that it would try to give tentative approval by July 9 so construction could continue.

Larios said that blasting operations for the new building would be completed in late July with the laying of the foundation to begin in the first week in August. Delay in laying pipe lines for the new building would delay construction.

Larios, however, agreed that the water board should carefully review his proposal with its engineers before coming to any decision.

Another problem seemed to be swiftly ironed out between the city and the county. The water department supplies the Boulevard section around LeHerb's Restaurant with a six-inch main from the Pearl Street tank crossing Crest Avenue. The county will have to rip up that line during the construction and had suggested replacing it with another six-inch line. The city wants a 12-inch line and agreed to pay the difference between the two lines. County officials last night agreed to that arrangement.

Larios also asked that the city water department maintain the new system. That matter was left open to further discussion.

It is expected that the county and the water board will meet shortly after July 9 to discuss what Dye termed "financial responsibility" for the new water system.

Paltz K of C Joins the List

NEW PALTZ Another New Paltz organization has joined the growing list of critics of Dr. John J. Neumaier's presidency at the State University College at New Paltz.

The Knights of Columbus passed a resolution Thursday night indicating that the college "is getting a reputation as an institution where area residents are becoming more and more hesitant to enroll their young people."

Pointing out that members of the New Paltz K of C had expressed deep concern to Dr.

Neumaier previously for what was termed "a breakdown in discipline" at the college, the resolution states that his response was mainly "a series of ambiguous answers which amounted to little more than double talk" and that he apparently had little concern for the real issues in the matter.

They expressed the feeling that his operation of the college is "not in keeping with the principles of our organization."

In recent weeks similar criticism of Dr. Neumaier and his administration has been voiced by other organizations including the Ulster County American Legion, Ulster County Veterans

New Paltz and some members of the New Paltz Chamber of Commerce. Still other chamber members voiced approval.

Emphasizing that the New Paltz K of C has been constantly working with young people in an attempt to have them become responsible citizens and a credit to their community and their nation, the Knights resolved to "join the growing number of organizations and individuals in the area who are publicly expressing concern for the future of the college under the direction of Dr. Neumaier."

The resolution concluded, "because the State University College at New Paltz is getting a reputation as an institution where residents are becoming more and more hesitant to enroll their young people the membership feels that Dr.

Neumaier must be asked to resign." Their feelings are being communicated to the state officials.

In addition there solution went on record in favor of the four-point program called for Thursday in a public statement by 16 full professors at New Paltz who asked for public support mainly to keep the college opening and functioning, to maintain within the college a scope for free intellectual inquiry in all directions to safeguard courses from being perverted to vehicles of propaganda and to protect the young people against invasion of their right to a free education, by student, faculty or propagandists.

Today's press release was issued under the direction of Harold Phillips, Grand Knight of the New Paltz K of C.

Impasse on Cambodia Forces Night Sessions in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to start night sessions next week in an effort to resolve the legislative impasse created by the month and a half debate on U.S. policy in Cambodia.

The strategy was conceived by Senate Democrats with a dual purpose: showing good will to the Nixon administration by considering its legislative program and applying pressure for an early vote on proposed restrictions on future U. S. activities in Cambodia.

But an end to the marathon debate still seems unlikely much before the June 30 date set by President Nixon for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Cambodia.

The Senate agreed Thursday to vote Monday on an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., specifying presidential powers to protect U.S. troops, which appears to command virtually unanimous support.

Earlier Thursday, another agreement was reached to permit evening consideration of bills blocked from floor consideration by the current debate.

The agreement calls for the Senate to drop the military sales bill, vehicle for the current Cambodia debate, and turn to other legislative matters each day at 5 p.m. The night sessions are expected to last four or five hours.

The first measure to be considered will be a catch-all, supplemental appropriations bill that has to be passed by June 30. It is to be followed by a $4.5 billion education money bill that contains three House-passed riders to slow school desegregation. These have previously been rejected by the Senate.

If these can be cleared, the Senate will then consider such measures as the House-approved increase in the legal limit on the national debt—which also must be passed by June 30—and the controversial postal reform measure.

Also as part of the agreement, the Senate will meet two hours ahead of its usual noon starting time.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proposed the revised scheduling to a Democratic caucus Thursday, which backed it unanimously.

After some conferences, Republican leaders went along.

Debate on Byrd's amendment centered on whether it would authorize President Nixon to repeat the April 30 attack into Cambodia without congressional approval or consultation.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., cosponsor of the Cooper-Church amendment to curb future U.S. actions, said he didn't want to support anything that might give advance approval to renewed attacks into Cambodia.

As long as U.S. troops stay in Cambodia, the President can protect them, Cooper said, adding that under the Cooper-Church proposal "he could not send them back after withdrawal without coming to Congress for consent."

"Except for those emergency situations which can arise and do arise," Byrd said, "The President would have time to consult with Congress and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the other cosponsor of the Cooper-Church amendment, said Byrd's amendment "makes explicit what was implicit" in the previously adopted Mansfield amendment upholding the President's constitutional powers as Commander-in-Chief.

Goodell Has GOP Up in Arms

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Charles E. Goodell once again has fellow Republicans up in arms over the way he conveys his antiwar sentiments. James R. Grover Jr., a GOP congressman from Long Island is citing an appearance Goodell made at an antiwar rally last June 6. The appearance was in Babylon, right near Grover's law office. And, appearing with Goodell, was Harvey W. Sherman, who already has the Liberal party nomination to oppose Grover and also is seeking the Democratic designation in next Tuesday's primary election. The presence of Goodell with Sherman in Grover's home town prompted the congressman to describe his dismay in a news letter.

But Grover apparently is not the only Republican congressman who is livid. A published dispatch from Washington, D.C., earlier this week said Republican Gov. Rockefeller met with GOP members of New York's con-

Postal Bill May Hit Senate Snag

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed a bill to overhaul the post office for the first time in its 187 year history. But two senators have hinted they may filibuster the Senate's bill because it would permit the union shop.

The matter of union membership threatened to be the biggest point of contention between the House and Senate versions of postal reform.

The House bill, passed 359 to 24 Thursday night, contains a "right to work" amendment that would prohibit compulsory union membership. The Senate bill contains the agreement the Nixon administration reached with the postal unions, providing for collective bargaining rights and compulsory arbitration as well as permitting the union shop.

Sens. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., have indicated they may filibuster the bill if it contains allowance for the union shop. An attempt is sure to be made on the Senate floor to attach a "right to work" amendment.

The House action came after three days of bitter debate and voting on nearly 40 amendments.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount gave reluctant backing to the measure. "While it is not a perfect bill, it is a good bill," he said. "We hope the Senate acts quickly."

The House bill would convert the post office into an independent government agency called the U.S. Postal Service. It would be operated by an 11-member commission including the postmaster general, who would lose his cabinet status.

A separate rate board within the commission could set postal rates, subject to a veto within 90 days by a majority vote of either house of Congress.

The bill includes an 8 percent pay raise, retroactive to April 16, for the nearly 700,000 postal workers at a cost of $606.6 million. The workers also could reach their top pay scales in eight years instead of the present 21, and the measure also provides postal unions, for the first time, with collective bargaining rights and compulsory arbitration.

The House rejected on a voice vote an amendment by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., to return the penny post card, which now requires a five-cent stamp.

Rockefeller spokesman said the question of Conservative endorsements did not come up, since that was simply academic by this time.

He conceded, however, that the governor and the congressmen did discuss the relationship between Goodell's campaign and the campaigns of some of the lawmakers.

Rockefeller said he would speak to the senator about "avoiding possible conflicts," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Goodell in Washington said the senator has in the past and would continue to appear at "legitimate peace rallies" that he views as non-partisan.

If, however, there was reason to believe that an attempt was being made to "use" Goodell's presence as an endorsement of a candidacy, the senator would not attend, the spokesman added.

Sherman said that he, Goodell, and Democratic senatorial contender Paul O'Dwyer all had been invited by the South Shore Moratorium Committee and that he simply exchanged a few words with Goodell before their speeches. O'Dwyer did not speak, since rain washed out part of the rally.

Grover, in his newsletter released Thursday, expressed deep concern over literature he said was distributed at the rally. It included an "attack" on the American Legion, of which he is a member, the congressman maintained.

Moreover, Grover added, it said "we are fiercely determined to press for change and turn this country around from top to bottom."

That, said Grover, is the kind of position that leads to confrontations and is not what his constituents espouse.

Goodell and Sherman said they were not the ones who distributed such literature and had been unaware of it.

Wage-Price Controls Issue May Cause Furor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The issue of standby wage and price controls shows signs of igniting a congressional furor over President Nixon's domestic policies.

"I think Congress should consider standby controls," House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said in an interview.

Although he stopped short of an outright endorsement of controls, Albert clearly backs the effort of Democratic members of the Banking Committee to write standby control authority for the President into pending legislation.

Nixon wants no wage-price control legislation, even on a standby basis, as he made abundantly clear in his economic speech Wednesday. Democrats have criticized that speech as lacking in effective new initiatives against continuing inflation and the slump in employment.

The drive for standby wage and price controls is building at a time Nixon seeks to raise the national debt ceiling by $18 billion and government statisticians reported another four tenths of one per cent living cost increase during May.

Labor leaders and businessmen appeared divided over the wage and price control issue following the President's economic message. Some want more control, while others want none.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy also said Thursday there was "some likelihood" that Nixon would ask Congress for tax increases next year.

Democratic insistence on bringing the wage-price control matter to a House vote could harden party positions on the whole issue of the administration's economic policy—an issue some congressmen are saying will overshadow the Indochina war by the November elections.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., and other Democratic members of the Banking Committee want to write standby controls over prices and wages into pending legislation to extend the Defense Production Act, and they say their chances are good.

The senior Republican committee member, Rep. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, challenged this estimate.

"I don't think they have the votes," he said in an interview, adding that Republican members would be solid against the provision.

The issue could still be raised on the floor, though proponents would not have the tactical advantage of a committee endorsement of the provision.

Walsh also said that, once the Hudson and other rivers are cleaned up under the state's Pure Waters Program, land near them should be available for the public to enjoy.

"We recommend that an emphasis should be made to acquire more lands near concentrations of population to provide access for the public to the rivers, and particularly the Hudson, so that, when the rivers are made clean, they will be readily accessible to the public," Walsh said.

Release of Fresh Water Urged for Municipalities

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A spokesman for the state's cities urged today that the Adirondack runoff be impounded so that Hudson Valley municipalities would have more water for their needs.

Donald A. Walsh, counsel to the New York Conference of Mayors and Other Municipal Officials, spoke at a hearing of the Assembly Conservation Committee on Parks.

"I am concerned," Walsh told the lawmakers, "that the effect on the Hudson River as a recreational and fishing area by the impoundment of the Adirondack runoff has not been actively pursued by the Conservation Department."

He said studies indicate that a half-billion gallons of fresh water a day could be released from the Adirondacks to replenish downstream supplies when there is inadequate rainfall.

The controlled releases, Walsh added, would improve the Hudson for recreational and other purposes.

Plans Quiet Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon is planning a "quiet time" of family togetherness Sunday to celebrate Father's Day and her wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Nixon told a gathering of youngsters on the White House lawn Thursday that she never gets to see her husband. "He's always in meetings," she said.

Joining the President and his wife for the celebration, probably at Camp David, will be daughters Tricia and Julie, and David Eisenhower, the White House said.

20 Injured in Latest Report of Violence

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—At least 20 persons were injured, one seriously, Thursday night as violence erupted in a predominantly black section over the fatal shooting of an escaped convict.

At the peak of the violence, about 60 police officers moved in to seal off a 30-block square area on the fringe of the downtown district, and authorities reported sniper fire, rock throwing and isolated looting.

The disturbance started when police shot and killed Lewis Stephen Wheeler, 26, Kansas City, Mo. Wheeler had earlier shot and wounded Polk County Deputy Sheriff Robert Slycord, 43, Des Moines. Slycord was reported in satisfactory condition with three bullet wounds.

Local hospital officials said 20 persons were treated for cuts and bruises after wandering groups hurled rocks, bricks and bottles at passing cars. No police were injured. Robert Hinkle, 5, underwent surgery for a skull fracture and was listed in serious condition.

Des Moines Police Chief Wendell Nichols said his officers held off entering the trouble area in an attempt to "let things cool off by themselves." Nichols said the disorder started after rumors circulated that police had killed Wheeler in "cold blood."

"I don't know how you kill a man like that in cold blood," Nichols said.

A crowd of about 400 persons, mostly blacks, gathered outside the house where Wheeler was holed up. They hindered attempts to remove the injured man. The crowd then became unruly, and officers were ordered out of the area.

The shootout with police marked the end of a three-day manhunt across Iowa for Wheeler and a companion who overpowered a deputy sheriff while being transferred to the state penitentiary. Wheeler and David Green, 25, East Moline, Ill., forced a rural Donnellson man at gunpoint to drive them to Des Moines.

Green turned himself in to Polk County authorities Wednesday night.

Government to Act On School Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal officials are drafting a letter telling Southern school districts they must end discrimination as well as segregation by this fall.

J. Stanley Pottinger, director of the Office for Civil Rights, said the letter is in response to complaints that even in desegregated schools, black pupils and teachers are not always treated equally with whites.

The complaints, he indicated, include charges of the rampant firing of black teachers; black students not allowed to attend classes with whites, and other instances of classroom or extra-curricular discrimination.

In addition to the letter, which awaits approval by Elliot Richardson, the new secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, at least 100 federal officials will monitor desegregation plans this fall and investigate charges of discrimination. Pottinger said in an interview.

He said districts that discriminate despite approved desegregation plans will be taken to court by the Justice Department or lose their federal aid.

Some of the complaints he talked about were voiced on Capitol Hill Thursday by four young blacks who told the Senate's Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity of discrimination in their integrated schools in the South.

Anita Kleinpeter, a senior from Lake Providence, La., said the 150 blacks who entered her high school under a freedom of choice option were told they couldn't join school clubs until they'd been there a year.

She said during the second year standards were raised to include an A average for entrance and the third year clubs were closed, she said.

Blacks still can't vote for student officers, let alone be a candidate, Miss Kleinpeter said, adding that when blacks joined the band whites got out.

The school forbids blacks from using public instruments or band uniforms, she said.

Another young black, Tyrone Thomas of Mobile, Ala., told the panel, "If you're in English class and you have a point, the teacher seems to overlook you."

Thomas said his predominantly white school opens its clubs, athletic programs and lunchrooms to Negro pupils but, he added, there is tension between the black students and white teachers.

"A Rocky Mountain, N.C., student, Lowanda Lovette, told the senators, "If you question the things that happen to you, you're called a Communist or a black militant."

She said she was expelled from school following a fight between black and white students. Miss Lovette said she was only watching, adding that none of the whites involved was expelled.

Lionel McIntyre, who lives in New Orleans, and Miss Lovette said they would never attend another integrated school.

The testimony marked the first appearance of students before the committee. Legislators, teachers and administrators have already appeared before the group.

Nigerian Red Cross To Leave Biafra Soon

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—The Nigerian Red Cross is scheduled to end its relief operations in what used to be Biafra at the end of June, but about 3 million people are still living in hunger and economic despair in the former rebel state.

Experts warn that the Red Cross pullback could imperil the lives of some 2½ million children who lived through or were born into the 2½-year war of secession.

The director of the Nigerian Christian Council, Emmanuel Urhobo, said the figure of 3 million people in danger—estimated three weeks ago—probably has risen.

National and state government rehabilitation commissions are slated to take over the Red Cross relief work, but there is widespread doubt of their ability to run effective and coordinated operations.

In the East Central State, once the heartland of Biafra, the local rehabilitation commission reportedly has asked the Red Cross to remain beyond June 30.

The East Central State was hardest hit by the war.

Although starvation no longer hangs over the Ibo people and others who joined the rebellion, many go hungry in villages and towns around Owerri and Orlu, 240 miles southeast of Lagos.

Thousands of children are severely undernourished, some lying in crowded hospitals with number tags around their necks, others wandering about begging. Their milk rations will end when the Red Cross goes.

The Red Cross is already restricting some operations in order to provide food until June 30 for 30,000 of the worst cases who are in hospitals, as well as to give what they can to 200,000 outpatients.

Parts of the East Central State, especially the capital, Enugu, are picking their way back toward normal. There is food in the markets—but often no money to buy it with.

Countless people are out of work in the towns, and in the villages the main cassava crop is still two months away, while other crops have not yet been planted.

In some areas, bands of thieves move about stealing food stocks and other goods.

The federal government has allotted the equivalent of $56 to each holder of worthless Biafran currency and plans to pump $27 million into the state's economy. Many feel this is too little money to make much impact, but it should help spur the war-ravaged region toward recovery.

per cent of the total, or 44,613,195 gallons, led the states in the total amount purchased. This averaged 2.26 gallons per individual but was considerably less than the 5.16 gallons average figure for Nevada, where 457,000 estimated population was credited with purchases of 2,357,709 gallons.

The state-by-state figures released by the institute do not take into consideration the transients. With resort centers like Las Vegas and Reno, this obviously would make a difference in the per capita average for Nevada, and likely in other states.

New York had the second highest consumption, 41,993,070 gallons, or 11.61 per cent of the nation's total, and was followed by Illinois at 24,619,182 gallons, for 6.81 per cent of the total.

Americans Drank More Last Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Surprise: Americans drank more alcoholic beverages last year than the year before.

According to Distilled Spirits Institute here, Americans bought an average of 1.80 gallons per capita in 1969. The year before that it was 1.73 gallons, and in 1967, it was 1.64 gallons.

The institute's figures start with 1934, when apparent consumption averaged 0.46 gallons per person. Prohibition was repealed in 1933. Since then, consumption has risen each year, with only minor exceptions.

The most recent exception was in 1958, when consumption averaged 1.24 gallons, down slightly from 1957's figure of 1.25 gallons.

Latest Hughes Takeover Makes Him Top Operator

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Howard Hughes, who arrived in Nevada aboard a private railroad train in 1966 and hasn't been seen in public since, has become the state's largest gambling casino owner.

Hughes, a recluse who lives in a Las Vegas penthouse, won unanimous approval of the Nevada Gaming Commission Thursday for an $11.5 million deal that includes control of Harolds Club in Reno.

This is the first venture into Northern Nevada by the mysterious billionaire. He previously had acquired control of six casinos in Las Vegas, as well as mining claims, ranches, real estate, a television station and an airport. His total investment in this state is about $250 million.

The deal gives him control of 15 per cent of the $550 million wagered legally each year in Nevada.

Since his arrival in Nevada there is no record of Hughes ever having set foot outside the Desert Inn, topped by his ninth floor penthouse.

Not even Gov. Paul Laxalt has seen him, although the governor does say he has talked with Hughes by telephone.

Former actress Jean Peters, 43, announced early this year that she was divorcing Hughes, 64, but there is no public record of such legal action.

Dead Woman Seen Riding With Hippies

MARSHALL, N.C. (UPI)—Two children have reported seeing VISTA worker Nancy Morgan riding with two "hippie-looking men" and a girl the day before her nude body was found in a parked car on a remote mountain road.

An autopsy completed Thursday indicated Miss Morgan, 24, of Baton Rouge, La., had been dead about two days when her body, bound with nylon cord, was discovered.

However, Barbara Gunter, 10, and her nephew Michael, said they saw Miss Morgan with three other persons in a government car about 5 p.m. Tuesday, about 15 hours before her body was found on Hot Springs Mountain, about six miles away.

The two said they were standing with other children near the intersection of N.C. 208-212 when the car passed. They said there were two "hippie-looking men" in the back seat, that Miss Morgan was driving and a girl with shoulder-length brown hair was in the front seat with Miss Morgan.

Michael said he was sure it was Miss Morgan driving "because my uncle won a cake walk with her once and I know her real well."

The children said they had talked to FBI agents Wednesday night and were shown some pictures, but only recognized Nancy.

Miss Morgan was reported missing Tuesday night. Her body was found Wednesday morning in the government car she used, at Tanyard Gap in a wooded area a few yards off U.S. 70-25, a winding, mountain highway which runs from Asheville, N.C., to Knoxville, Tenn.

Her body was nude, except for her slacks which were draped over her head. Her feet were bound with nylon cord and her hands were tied behind her back with a piece of cord which also looped around her neck.

State Medical Examiner Dr. Richard Page Hudson Jr. reported Thursday it appeared the girl was in such a position "she couldn't help but strangle." He said it was unlikely the girl had strangled herself accidentally while trying to free herself from the bonds.

Hudson said test conducted so far indicated Miss Morgan had not been sexually molested.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 19, 1970

Revamping Cities

By the year 2,000, it is predicted, something like 98 per cent of the population will live on one per cent of the land in the United States.

The phenomenon of this century is a reversal of what took place in the 19th century, when pioneers left the eastern cities to seek new opportunities on the free or cheap lands in the West. Today, growing numbers of the under-privileged are leaving rural communities and heading for the industrial centers, there to become either a dynamic force for progress or a cultural time bomb.

At the same time there is a countermovement. The middle class are abandoning the urban centers in droves, mainly because the opportunities for decent housing and decent living are becoming increasingly limited.

We are reaching the point where the very wealthy and the very poor will inhabit our cities. If no remedy is found, the middle class will enter the cities only to work during daytime hours, returning to the suburbs at night and leaving the cities devoid of the human "input" so vital to their social and economic health.

Federal and local governments are trying to stem this outgoing tide as well as to accommodate the influx from the country, but the ability to solve the problem rests with the private sector to a much greater degree than is generally recognized. In fact, how successfully private enterprise can contribute to the solution is one of the most important issues facing America in the Seventies.

Fortunately, there are numerous examples of what private enterprise, in cooperation with local government, can do. Pittsburgh's renovation of its Golden Triangle is probably the most famous. Others include the Golden Gateway in San Francisco, model cities programs in Gary, Ind., and Seattle and the revitalization of the St. Louis waterfront.

One of the most ambitious of all, however, is "Illinois Center," now abuilding within walking distance of Chicago's famed business district, "The Loop," along the south bank of the Chicago River and overlooking Lake Michigan. What makes this project unique is that it will be located on 80 acres of air rights purchased from the Illinois Central Railroad, a subsidiary of IC Industries, one of three companies participating in the venture.

Illinois Center will have the ingredients to make it a self-sufficient community, from residential units to offices to stores and schools and parks. It will be larger than most Illinois cities, with a permanent population of between 35,000 and 50,000 and a daytime working population of about 80,000.

Not since the reconstruction period following the Great Fire of 1871 has any development of such magnitude been attempted in Chicago. It will cost an estimated $1 billion and take about 20 years to complete.

According to Danish custom, its Order of the Elephant awarded to General Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1945 in appreciation of his role in the liberation of Denmark, was returned upon his death. The Korean Armistice Commission marked its 300th meeting in the 17 years since the armistice that ended the war with confrontations that remain cold and bitter. David Lawrence Says Draft May Be Superseded Now by Voluntary Process

WASHINGTON — Maybe the time has come for the President to ask Congress to enact a law providing for a volunteer system of military service, even though it may be expensive. For the Supreme Court of the United States, by a 5 to 3 decision, has just delivered a crushing blow to the compulsory "combatant training and service" sectors of the present system. Justices Black, Douglas, Brennan, Marshall and Harlan constituted the majority, while Chief Justice Burger and Justices White and Stewart dissented.

The net effect was to widen the scope of the provision of the existing law which has heretofore been interpreted to require a person seeking exemption from military service as a conscientious objector to establish some relationship with a religious institution as the basis for such a classification. He had not been able to rely on "essentially political, sociological, or philosophical views or a merely personal moral code."

The new court ruling says that the individual's objections do not necessarily have to be based upon a belief in a supreme being or involve religious training. The high court, without going into constitutional issues, declares that the present draft law permits exemption from military service of "all those whose consciences, spurred by deeply held moral, ethical, or religious beliefs, would give them no rest or peace if they allowed themselves to become a part of an instrument of war."

While there are many young men who believe that the words "Thou Shalt Not Kill" in the Ten Commandments are never to be violated, they have brushed aside the right of defense against an enemy who kills men, women and children who are innocent of wrongdoing.

The new decision by the Supreme Court unfortunately will permit the creation of a whole new group of "conscientious objectors." At a news conference on Tuesday, the Selective Service Director, Curtis W. Tarr, said he would like to see Congress reverse the ruling, since this "certainly would make our job easier."

Meanwhile, guidelines are being issued to the nation's local draft boards to conform to the court's ruling, which allows registrants to claim conscientious-objector status on other than traditionally religious grounds. These guidelines provide that, in order to qualify for this classification, there can be no question that a man's belief must be sincere, that it must be something more than a personal moral code, that it must be "the result of some kind of rigorous training," and that it must be opposed to war in all forms, not just a particular war.

The draft law, of course, permits other kinds of duties, but some of the conscientious objectors do not wish even to enroll in any part of the defense establishment. It remains to be seen whether exemptions specified now for conscientious objectors will require them to serve in non-combat units of the military organization assigned under the draft system.

The impression conveyed by the Supreme Court opinion is that any individual who gives the matter a little thought will be able to come up with an argument against the evils of war and will be able to apply for an exemption. Director Tarr concedes that the college-trained youth will have a distinct advantage in this regard.

Whether or not a registrant seeking classification as a conscientious objector will be able to make a convincing case and go to court if his request for exemption is turned down is something that will have to be determined as the many thousands of such cases start to develop in the next several months. Certainly the door has been opened to a lot of litigation for those who wish to avoid compulsory service under the draft.

The President has been considering the volunteer system for several months, but little has been done about it because of the huge cost involved. Undoubtedly the draft is one of the major causes of the campus disturbances. Now that the Supreme Court has made it possible for almost anybody to claim exemption as a conscientious objector, it may well be wondered whether the draft system will have to be superseded by a volunteer process, irrespective of the expense to be incurred.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Power is most potent when it is not used. The knowledge of it is sufficient; to spend it leads to weakness. This is why, shortly after the death of John F. Kennedy, I wrote a column referring to our adventure in Vietnam as the "death of a thousand cuts."

The Vietnamese, skinny little men, had driven the mighty French out. France used its power to fight jungles. At a guess, France was 20 times more powerful than Vietnam. But the Vietnamese were fighting in their jungles, their shacks — the French had to send each bullet, each loaf of bread, each soldier 8,500 miles.

The U.S. fell into the same trap. This nation of 200,000,000 cannot win a war with the 17,000,000 South Vietnamese on our side. Recently, a fine series of articles by Robert S. Boyd of the Knight newspapers came to the same conclusion. They were written from Hanoi and Boyd had met the leaders. In spite of extensive bombing damage, he found the Orientals confident that they could go on fighting forever — the Americans must tire some day and, when they leave, "we will rule all of Vietnam."

Our government, and I do not refer only to this Administration, has a lack of appreciation of geopolitics. The world has but three great powers left. They are, in order of strength and resources: The United States, the Soviet Union, and China. Two of those three control the Asian land mass.

To take Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and convert them to the blessings of Communism, Peking has only to send two or three million of its 700,000,000 people down the trails. They have the option of doing this at any moment. They did it in North Korea when American soldiers beat their way all the way to the Yalu River.

The Chinese sent in their night-screaming battalions and Chesty Puller and his Marines and the U.S. Army fell back. We won nothing. The Orientals save their aces until U.S. power is deeply committed. Last week, after a decade and a half of uneasy peace, the officials of North Korea announced that "the reunification of the country cannot be accomplished until the United States imperialist aggressor army has been forced off the peninsula..."

There are two Koreas — North and South. American forces hold the line at the 38th parallel. They have held it for whom? And who pays for it? We do, and what are we going to do with it? So far, Korea and South Vietnam have cost $150 billion. The death of a thousand cuts not only weakens this country, but archly divides our own people into hawks and doves.

In Moscow, an editorial written by the Communist Party Central Committee described the U.S. as "torn by crises and rapidly losing influence in Western Europe and Latin America." The paper said, "is experiencing a profound crisis. The biggest imperialist power demonstrates a conflict between the heights of technical development and the depths of a social system..."

Wrong? Oh, no. Correct. Forget the conference table in Paris. No one confers. If the U.S. announced today that it was going to bring home all of its forces, the Vietnamese would have a choice: Fight it out among themselves, or hold an election choosing Communism or democracy. This is what is going to happen if we stay another twenty years.

The South Vietnam Army is called Arvn. It has had seven years of training by U.S. "advisers" and has not won. The Cambodians run for the hills when they hear the first mortar shell whistling overhead. To my knowledge, they have never won a battle. Laos says its government will fall unless we send American blood and guts quickly.

All of them are small nations hanging off the belly of Asia. America cannot play Big Brother forever. Our country, strongest militarily and economically in the whole world, did not husband its strength — it was dissipated in a situation which it cannot win. Is Pravda wrong when it states that we are not only losing everywhere, but worse, we are fighting among ourselves? This further weakens a great country.

And by what moral standard do we go into small nations 7,000 miles away to inflict democracy on Asiatics who have never understood politics, but will always obey the will of the winner? If we use thermonuclear weapons, we will not only be condemned by the world of public opinion, but we risk war with Russia and China.

Pull out. Pull out now. Leave Asia to the Asiatics. The French did it and survived. Let us husband our strength and wait for the big showdown — if it ever comes...

Trailways Works Drivers 70 Hours a Week 8,000 Times

WASHINGTON — Investigators for the Interstate Commerce Commission have caught the Trailways bus line illegally overworking its drivers on more than 8,000 occasions since 1960. Yet the commission has repeatedly refused to act against the company.

For safety's sake, bus drivers are prohibited from working more than 70 hours a week. Yet even this limit, which would keep bus drivers going at the exhausting pace of 10 hours a day for seven days a week, has been ignored by the company.

Worse, more than 1,000 of the infractions occurred after the ICC had ordered the bus company to stop the violations.

The case, involving Safeway Trails, Inc., an eastern subsidiary of the vast Trailways system, dates back to 1961 when ICC investigators found that drivers had been compelled to work beyond the 70-hour limit 3,399 times over a two-year period.

The commission finally got around to issuing a "cease and desist" order in February, 1963. The order was lifted 20 months later after Marvin E. Walsh, a corporate vice president, solemnly swore in an affidavit that the law had been obeyed.

No attempt was made, apparently, to determine whether Walsh was telling the truth. Indeed, the staff discovered 1,066 violations during a three-month period while the compliance order was still in effect.

Bush Backs Off

The following April, John Bush, then the ICC's vice chairman, ordered an investigation into this apparent flouting of the commission's order. But two months later, without explanation, Bush suddenly ordered the investigation discontinued.

Reached by this column, the commissioner said he couldn't remember the case. A member of his staff, however, explained that Bush decided to stop the probe because the commission staff had informed him that Trailways was making an effort to stop the violation.

Bush's aide read from a private memo from the ICC's bureau of enforcement, which asserted that Trailways was "making a substantial effort" to curb its scofflaw behavior. In other words, the aid acknowledged, Bush decided to call off the investigation not because Trailways had started obeying the law, but because the company was "trying."

Since the company started "trying," staff investigators have uncovered more than 3,000 further violations. Most of the evidence is based on the company's own monthly hours-of-service, and the infractions are not seriously disputed by the company.

The Department of Transportation, which has taken over the ICC's safety investigation functions, has now asked the commission to suspend Trailways' license to operate between Washington and New York for two months.

The request, filed in June of last year, was turned over to a hearing examiner last February. Commission spokesmen don't expect the hearing examiner's decision for several more weeks.

Ethical Question

Significantly, Charles Webb, a former ICC commissioner who now works for the bus lobby, filed a belated intervention in the case which raises a serious ethical question.

As a commissioner, Webb took part in the previous proceedings involving Trailways.

Samuels Is Gaining Ground; Goldberg Adopts New Strategy

By CHARLES DUMAS

Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Arthur Goldberg may deny it but it's obvious that his campaign strategists believe Howard Samuels is gaining ground in their primary contest for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The surest evidence was presented this week, when Goldberg abruptly shifted tactics and began attacking Samuels by name.

In the preceding 2½ months of the campaign, Goldberg had virtually ignored Samuels, rarely mentioning him by name. The theory was that Goldberg, the former Supreme Court justice and United Nations ambassador, was far better known to the public and there was no point in giving Samuels any free publicity.

Polls taken early in the campaign purportedly gave Goldberg a commanding lead in the primary struggle, so the strategy he adopted was to simply ride that lead to victory on June 23.

Hard campaigning by Samuels in recent weeks, especially in the New York City area, apparently have begun to bear fruit for the wealthy upstate businessman, however. An intensive advertising effort on television also was launched to close the identity gap.

Now the Samuels people say they have fresh polls showing their man is moving up on Goldberg, although still trailing.

Goldberg says his own polls show no gain for Samuels, but persons close to Goldberg concede Samuels "might have improved his position a little."

Even without access to the polls, veteran political professionals observing the course of the Goldberg-Samuels race are inclined to agree that Goldberg obviously is looking fearfully over his shoulder.

One such pro, a Republican who has managed important campaigns, put it this way:

"In this business it's axiomatic that, if you're out ahead and things are going well, you keep doing whatever you've been doing. You don't make any significant changes in tactics for fear you'll foul yourself up. But, if you start losing ground, then you have to think seriously about something new, something to stop the slippage."

The Republican professional cited the prominent example recounted in the book "The Selling of the President," which described how Richard Nixon's advisers fretted in anguish as Hubert Humphrey began closing the gap late in the 1968 campaign. After much agonizing, they decided that a change in Nixon's tactics might make the situation worse, so they sweated it out and won a narrow victory.

Some of Goldberg's men have described his attack on Samuels as "our new strategy." But, while denying that it is motivated by Samuels' gains, they do not explain why a new strategy is needed.

Goldberg himself says he is speaking out now "because of a sense of justice" — because, he says, Samuels has been saying things and taking positions that really should be rebutted.

Not worried then? Certainly not, Goldberg says. Not at all.

Reds 'Take' Brandt in Talks

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt has learned the hard way that concessions, however generous and one-sided, will not easily appease the Communists.

He risked his political career to come to terms with Bonn's neighbors in the East. But so far his "Ostpolitik" — which is largely based on the principle of payment in advance — has achieved few, if any, gains for the Germans.

Even "realistic" politicians in Bonn now believe that he is trading away West Germany's rights in his eagerness to reach accommodation with Russia, Poland and Communist East Germany.

The opposition Christian Democrats particularly deplore the fact that much of Bonn's bargaining power has been "surrendered" before negotiations with the East even started in earnest.

There is also growing fear in Washington that the chancellor's ambitious Eastern policy is weakening NATO and might jeopardize the West's legal position in Berlin.

Brandt is certainly one Western politician who went a long way to convince the Russians that he is — what they call — a "realistic" statesman.

His Socialist party even condemned the "extension of the Vietnamese conflict to Cambodia" while pleading for the continued presence of American troops in Europe.

Among other things, Brandt no longer calls for free elections in the two Germanys as a prerequisite for unification. He made it clear that a united Germany is not his aim in the foreseeable future.

In fact, the "renunciation of force" treaty he is currently negotiating with Moscow would freeze into permanence the existence of East Germany as a separate Communist state. It would also freeze the Oder-Neisse line as Poland's western frontier in violation of the Potsdam agreement.

The Communists accept Brandt's concessions with a scowl and then proceed to bargain for more. As usual, they want total surrender, not a willingness to negotiate the renunciation-of-force pact as a hardy more than an absurdity — like an elephant offering a nonaggression treaty to a mouse.

But the Russians have other, and more ambitious plans for Bonn. Their scheme for the creation of a system of collective security in Europe is basically an attempt to turn West Germany into a "neutral" buffer zone beyond the Kremlin's East European empire.

Bonn's defection from the West would prepare the way, for a gradual breaking-up of NATO, leaving Russia as the unchallenged power in Europe.

There is certainly no reason to assume that Brandt himself backs Moscow's plans. A Socialist, democratic Socialist, he is essentially a man of the West. But he is increasingly a captive of his own boldness policies. Moreover, he is surrounded by a group of close advisers who apparently see West Germany's destiny as economic markets in the East.

Slowing Index Pace Gives Market Boost

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wall Street investors, apparently heartened by news that the cost of living index pace had slowed, boosted prices Thursday on the stock market.

The Dow Jones industrial average, down almost 5 points in early trading, rallied to an 8.01 increase and finished the day at 712.69. The UPI market indicator of all stocks rose 0.09 per cent while the New York Stock Exchange index showed a rise of 20 cents in the average common stock.

The rally began with the news from Washington that the cost of living index rose 0.04 per cent in May, the slowest pace of the year. This compared favorably with the April increase of 0.06 per cent.

At the same time, investors did not appear concerned with Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy's statement the Nixon administration might call for a tax increase next year or ask Congress to postpone already approved tax cuts.

At least one analyst said Wall Streeters didn't believe Nixon would call for tax increases of that Congress would approve such an action.

When the cost of living figures were announced, Alan R. Shaw, director of research for Harris, Upham & Co., said, "It could be a one month fluke. But at least it's the first sign that Nixon's anti-inflation campaign may be working."

This news appeared to have more effect on market prices than did Nixon's state of the economy message on Wednesday. But it didn't promote volume which has been moderate to slow for several days. Turnover slowed to 8,870,000 shares compared with the 9,870,000 traded Wednesday.

Of the 1,530 issues crossing the tape, 661 moved higher and 574 moved lower. There were 53 new lows set and 4 new highs.

No. Dutchess Hospital Adds Social Service Unit

RHINEBECK—A medical social service department has been added to the services already provided by Northern Dutchess Hospital. Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator, announced recently.

Coordinator of the department is Marjorie Rhinard, who assumed her duties on June 1. Mrs. Rhinard graduated from Wilkes College, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. in 1965 with a bachelor of arts degree in psychology.

The medical social service coordinator, Mrs. Rhinard explained, will counsel hospitalized patients with respect to problems in the social service area and will assist patients, their families and phys-cians, to plan for their discharge using appropriate community resources, extended care facilities, convalescent or nursing home, home health services.

Mazzarella said that by coordinating the activities of the Medical Social Service Department with the Upper Dutchess Visiting Nurse Home Care Program, it is hoped that more patients will be returned to their homes to complete their convalescence or to prepare to resume normal daily living.

Mrs. Rhinard, a native of Washington, D.C., is married to Dr. Larry Rhinard, a clinical psychologist at the Astor Child Guidance Clinic. They moved to this area in September, 1969 and are living in Red Hook.

Soyuz 9 Crew Lands After Setting New Mark

MOSCOW (UPI)—The two-man Soyuz 9 spacecraft parachuted to earth in the Soviet Union today at end of an 18-day earth orbit mission that far surpassed the former space endurance record held by U.S. astronauts, informed space sources said.

Cosmonauts Adrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov had blasted off from Baikonur Cosmodrome in their two-room silver Soyuz at 10 p.m. (3 p.m. EDT) June 1, passed the old space endurance record of America's 1965 Gemini 7 mission last Monday and remained in flight nearly 18 days.

Astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell, the Gemini 7 co-pilots, had remained aloft 13 days, eight hours and 35 minutes from blast-off to touchdown.

In advance of an official Soviet announcement, there were no firm details on the soft-landing. In the past, most missions have come down as close as possible to the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Soviet Central Asia.

KINGSTON—Town of Gardiner Constable Frank Gardner was honored by the Ulster County Constables Association Tuesday night at the town hall in Port Ewen for scoring the highest mark on an American Red Cross first aid course taken in May.

The guest speaker was State Police Sgt. Donald Paulsen of the Kingston Barracks who spoke on vehicle and traffic laws. His address was followed by a question and answer period.

Marine Corporal Testifies: Patrol Killed 16 Civilians

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Marines, on a night "killer" team patrol in the rugged Que Son Valley, first wounded a woman who tried to escape, and Herrod ordered Schwarz to "finish her off" with a pistol.

"Herrod told us to kill the rest of the people," Krichen said. "He said, 'I want these people killed.' I turned to Pfc (Thomas R.) Boyd and asked, 'Is he crazy or what?'"

Then, the corporal said, "everybody shot." He told the court he himself fired over the heads of the victims.

Lance Cpl. Gary E. Freel testified it was common practice for "killer teams" that "anything out after dark is fair game" and that he had been on patrols where civilians were slain by Marines.

Defense counsel Capt. Daniel H. Le Gear, Jr., 28, Kirkwood, Mo., brought several witnesses to show the high level of Communist activity in the area about 350 miles northeast of Saigon.

'Fairy Rings' Can be 'Tough Customers

Home gardeners become concerned when they see "fairy rings" in their lawns. In case you didn't know, fairy rings are those dark green rings of grass which get wider and wider each year. They are a mushroom growth, and several different species are involved in fairy ring formation. Some people eat them, but I'd want to be very particular because some varieties are poisonous.

How do you get rid of fairy rings in the lawn? There's no decent chemical way that I know of. Different methods have been suggested by readers. Mix one cup of household bleach in two quarts of water and drench the area. Mix one pound of Epsom Salts to one gallon of water and apply over the rings. Pour boiling hot water on the rings to kill the fungi. Mix up some copper sulfate. One tablespoon to a gallon of water and drench. Putting a dethatching machine over the area, and then removing the loose thatch. Lime applied on the rings may influence the growth of the fungus.

These are some suggestions I've received. Actually, I know of no effective cure, but suggest you try some of the above tips, hoping they're helpful.

COVERING STEEP BANKS: Got a bank too steep to mow? Locate a bed of cinna or myrtle, a useful item for sun and shade. This evergreen vine grows fast and roots down frequently. If your neighbor has a patch ask him for a few plants so you can scatter them six to twelve inches apart.

Another item worth trying is the ajuga, growing fast in sun or shade. In spring runners shade. It too spreads by underground stolons to form a mat that holds the soil. Do not plant in full sun as leaves turn a pale yellow, also do not shear these small evergreen plants as it weakens them.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "We have a dieffenbachia which has a tall stem, bare and unsightly. What can be done to make it bushy?"

Answer: I'd cut the top out and root it in a jug of water. Then take the bare stem and cut it into 4 inch pieces and root each in a pot of sand and peatmoss. Bury each piece horizontally, covering only lightly. Keep each section damp, not soggy, and it will root. After that pot each one and you'll have a lot of extra plants.

"Three years ago we put in rows of corn, each 70 feet long. When the corn was ready, so were the coons and in one night we lost by actual count 133 ears of good eating corn! The next year we heard of your "light idea" and tried hanging a kerosene lantern at each corner of the garden (four lanterns in all). This did the trick as we did not lose a single ear. Just to show that this method has some worth last year we were unable to 'hang out the lamps' and lost all the corn in one night. We suggest your readers who've had coon trouble try using lamps in the garden this year. It works!"

Good idea! One reader uses

Clean Air Conditioner Makes for Cool Summer

Today's room air conditioners are easy to install, easy to use and amazingly efficient. Efficiency, however, drops in direct proportion to owner neglect.

While constant attention is not necessary (most units, for example, have permanently sealed bearings so that lubrication is not needed) some periodic care will keep your unit running like new.

Maintenance is minor and generally consists of little more than cleaning.

Remember that although an air conditioner is basically a small refrigeration unit that cools and dehumidifies the air, it can do you little good unless air circulates through it.

So in addition to the refrigeration unit there is the blower—a fan that draws air from the room into the unit and then circulates it into the room after it is cooled.

Slow down that flow of air which should be continuous and you cut down on the efficiency of the air conditioner.

The filter on your air conditioner serves the purpose of keeping dust and dirt off the coils and other parts of the unit. But this is a mixed blessing because as the filter fills up with dirt it cuts down on the air that enters the air conditioner.

Dirt also causes the refrigeration unit to become overloaded as the air flow is cut down.

Cleaning is an absolute must to keep the air conditioner working properly. Inspect filters at least once a month, more often under very dusty conditions.

While air conditioners vary in design the filters on most of them can be removed easily. Some filters slide out the side or top. Others can be lifted off after first removing a plastic or metal grill.

Hold the filter up to a bright light. If you can't see through it you know the filter needs cleaning.

Some filters can be cleaned; others must be replaced. Replacement units are available at hardware and department stores. The permanent or washable filters should be vacuumed and then washed in detergent and water, depending on manufacturers instructions.

Clean the grill work and all openings into the air conditioner with a vacuum. With the filter out, clean dirt off all exposed parts: coils, grills, interior surfaces.

At least a couple times a year get to the fan and grill on the outside of the air conditioner. This second fan gets rid of the heat thrown off by the condenser. If the unit can be pulled from the room and wipe off the outside.

If your air conditioner is an older unit without sealed bearings, check instructions for lubrication procedure.

Your unit will work better if well sealed in the opening in the window. Keep other windows in the room and immediate area closed.

root in all directions, forming new plants to hold soil. Foliage is seldom more than four inches high, but taller flower spikes are produced in May. Pachysandras, or Japanese Spurge, is another good groundcover for short banks in deep

Church Heads Meet On Council's Fate
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations met here this weekend to consider how the gravely ailing National Council of Churches (NCC) may be replaced or resuscitated.
A final decision on the fate of the controversial council probably will be postponed until the general board's fall meeting at Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 11 and 12. But the talks here, continuing through Saturday and Sunday, may show the general direction the NCC is about to go.
That it will go somewhere—down the drain, if nowhere else—is a fact generally acknowledged by NCC officials. As now constituted, the 20-year-old council is dependent on financial contributions from its 33 member denominations. Those contributions have been falling steadily—partly because denominations themselves are strapped for money and partly because the NCC's liberal stands on race Vietnam and other issues have made it intensely unpopular with conservative elements of its constituent denominations.
Sharp cuts in staff and budget and a $4 million reserve fund have kept the NCC in business to far, but its warmest supporters agree it cannot last much longer in its present form.
A 15-member task force headed by the Rev. Arie R. Brouwer of New York, executive secretary of the Reformed Church in America, submitted to the general board four different options for "radically restructuring" the NCC.
One of the proposals would simply revamp the existing NCC by centralizing power in the general board. Two other plans envision broadening it into a more general ecumenical fellowship that would include the Roman Catholic Church and at least some of the 20 or more evangelical Protestant bodies which are not in the NCC.
The most radical proposal calls for scrapping the NCC in favor of a new single-purpose organization called "Churches United for Social Justice" which would focus its attention exclusively on social action programs.

Appropriations Approved For Flood Control Projects

By NANCY SULLIVAN

ROSENDALE
Appropriations for local flood control projects in Rosendale and North Ellenville were approved Thursday by the House Appropriations Committee.

The flood control project for North Ellenville received $1,150,000 and Rosendale will be granted $657,000 from the federal government.

The Army Corps of Engineers' contract for work on the Rosendale project expires September 15. Mayor Carl Grassi stated that this new grant is the money due at this point for construction at the project, as appropriations are granted periodically.

Ellenville Village Manager Lawrence Eyres stated that the sum $1,350,000 seemed the reasonable figure for beginning work on the North Ellenville project as the village has not yet received the exact figures of the cost. He also said that construction work on the project is slated to begin this summer.

Eyres said that land acquisition agents have been in Ellenville for the past three months, purchasing land from various property owners. The village has been working with officials for the last six months planning the project.

Work at the North Ellenville project consists of raising the heights of bridges to allow more water to pass under; cleaning out channel beds; and re-diking, according to Eyres.

Plans for the Ellenville project have been in existence since 1960. The original figure of the cost estimate to the village was about $296,800. However, today's estimated cost is $173,160. Relocation of the school's athletic field will be funded through the state and relocating or rebuilding at the same site of the Resnick Drive Bridge will be delayed two or three years. Both of these factors contributed to the lower figure of the cost of the village.

Ellenville's flood control project will be done in two phases with work done in North and South Ellenville. The North Ellenville project calls for construction of local protection works such as levees on the Bear Kill, Fantine Kill and North Gulley. The South Ellenville project will afford protection against recurrence of flood conditions which have had damaging effect in the past.

From 1957 through 1961, the Army's Corps of Engineers surveyed properties and took photographs of the Rosendale and Ellenville areas and prepared an engineering design with a rough estimate of costs involved. The 1959 estimate work and costs did not leave Rosendale residents too happy and a new study was made. The study, completed in June 1960, and costing the village $30,000 culminated in a formal agreement between the village, town, state and federal governments. The joint efforts produced cost figures of $3 million for Rosendale and $5 million for the Ellenville projects. In February, 1961, the report, with estimates, maps, an outline of titles to property needed by the project, along with an outline of complaints and suggestions from local people was reviewed by the Board of Rivers and Harbors, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The governors of New York and New Jersey submitted plans and recommendations to the secretaries of the Interior, Commerce, Health, Education and Welfare and Agriculture. In October, 1962, the House and Senate approved an authorization bill subsequently signed by President Kennedy and in October, 1963, the first federal grant of $100,000 was given to the Rosendale project for the creation of a design. The funding was half of the $200,000 required for overall planning.

On March 17, 1968, advertisements for bids were made to construction companies and in May the contract was awarded.

Food Stamp Program Going Well in County

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Just about 1,000 more persons are benefitting from the use of food stamps in Ulster County than the 1,700 who previously were the recipients of surplus food.

Social Services Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons said he is extremely pleased with how well the food stamp program is going with 2,695 persons consuming food purchased by 900 card holders.

Food stamp users are from all over the county and this fact alone makes the program favored over surplus food, Fitzsimmons said, explaining that in the past recipients had to travel to Kingston to the surplus food center for supplies which was sometimes a deterrent to getting them. Now with the food available in the stores instead, the convenience appeals to more persons and probably accounts to an extent for the growing popularity of the stamps.

Fitzsimmons also feels that the new program is much fairer to merchants and taxpayers who naturally prefer to sell what was, in the past, given away.

Also, a new food stamp plan has been in effect for several months now which in most instances means an increase in the amount of stamps a person may be authorized to purchase as well as an increase in the buying power of the stamps. Under the old plan a family of six was authorized to make food stamp purchases of $106 which could be exchanged for $138 worth of food giving the family a $32 a month bonus in buying power.

Under the new schedule the same family of six is still able to purchase $106 worth of food stamps but the bonus is increased to $38 for a total buying power of $144.

The new schedule for households from one to ten families is as follows: one person, purchase, $18; bonus, $10; total $28.

Two persons, purchase $36; bonus, $10; total, $46.

Three persons, purchase $64; bonus, $20; total, $84.

Four persons, purchase, $77; bonus, $29; total, $106.

Five persons, purchase, $93; bonus, $33; total, $126.

Seven persons, purchase, $115; bonus, $47; total, $162.

Eight, purchase, $126; bonus, $54; total, $180.

Nine, purchase, $136; bonus, $60; total, $196.

Ten, purchase, $140; bonus, $72; total, $212.

For families with 11 or more persons, four dollars may be added for each additional person.

Actress Hopes to Make Blacks More Beautiful

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Black is beautiful. And if actress Denise Nicholas has her way, blacks will be even more beautiful.

Twenty-five-year-old Denise, better known to television audiences as Liz McIntyre in ABC-TV's "Room 222," can't contain her enthusiasm over her latest project, a book on black beauty.

"I used to read political books," said the Detroit-born divorcee, referring to her days as a political science major at the University of Michigan — the place where the acting bug first bit her. "Now I read diet books, beauty books, exercise books. This black beauty book is so important to me."

The 5-foot-7, 120-pound hazel-eyed beauty, whose grandfather's mother was a full-blooded Indian, explains that her involvement with black beauty came about accidentally. "I was participating in a seminar at a black ghetto high school and I hadn't prepared a speech. What I said just came out," she recalls.

What came out went something like this: "I look around and think it's very funny to see young girls whose primary interest is boys with problems of bad posture and bad feet, the latter a result of wearing improper shoes. I know that these are two particular problems of black women. But they can be corrected."

"Sure, after years and years of doing domestic work, laboring long hours, not resting properly and not being able to afford beds and chairs that are good for the back, it's no wonder black women have poor posture."

Secondly, Denise noted that black women tend to swagger when they walk. "Of course, they're hipper than white women," she comments, "but our walk is symbolic of a defiance of white beauty standards."

"Don't get me wrong. I wouldn't want to do away with the special walk," she said. "What I'm trying to tell the girls is that there's a way of walking that isn't harmful to the body. I notice a lot of black chicks walking on the sides of their feet. I want to teach the girls that they can maintain the same attitude without placing their feet improperly and without ruining their shoes."

Denise herself claims she had the same posture-walking problem she's trying to correct in other girls. "Then my father threatened to tie a board to my waist and back to keep me pulled up." Dancing lessons, which she first started at age 20, helped stretch her spine she went from 5 foot 5 to 5 foot 7 and further improved her posture and corrected her walk.

On the other hand, she asserts there's no need to do what so many black charm schools have done... tried to impose white beauty standards and a white walk on black girls. "These girls who use bleaching creams and try to emulate the pretty white girls look ridiculous," she says scornfully.

"Black girls must learn there's no one black standard of beauty," she comments. "How can there be with so much mixing? Just look at my family. We range from the traditional-Afro black to myself with straight hair and hazel eyes."

Too many black women are insecure about their looks, she claims. "One thing white women have in a sense of security in terms of physical appearance. I wish we blacks could take from the whites this sense of security, which is reflected in the way whites look and feel about themselves. We must define and hold out for what we are."

Her introduction to the theatrical world began in earnest in the summer of '64 when she became involved in the administrative and directing end of the Free Southern Theatre, a touring company. The following year, while studying art at Tulane University teaching political action and Afro-American history to black youngsters she came to the attention of Viveca Lindfors who enlisted her talents for a dramatic program. "Three Board and a Passion" that toured Northern college towns. Miss Nicholas finally broke into New York theatre in the off-Broadway production, "Viet Rock," several years ago.

Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN.

The scientists are always reminding us that we live in an age of marvels. But from a literary standpoint, we are surrounded by wonders, too. A list of quotes from the latest Sunday Book Supplement makes this all too clear. It is not necessary to identify the quotes. They are interchangeable. Here goes: "A great book," "a classic," "the best, strongest, funniest, sagest, most outrageous," "the most powerful and gifted novel to come out of America in many years," "the best story I ever read," "a hauntingly unforgettable reading experience."

Next Sunday there will be another list, about different books, but equally complimentary. What do they mean? Maybe the reader has not read many books lately; maybe he wants to get his name in the paper; maybe he got the book free and feels he ought to make some return. Surely it cannot mean that so many books are that good that often. And a question that naturally arises is what becomes of these literary marvels in six months, or where are the ships of fools of yesteryear?

These thoughts came to me after I had read a quite different article in the same Sunday Supplement. Charles Dickens died 100 years ago this June 9. In the June 11, 1870, edition of the New York Times, says the author, Steven Marcus, five of the seven columns on the front page were devoted to Dickens' obituary, in addition to a two-column leading editorial and articles of varying length over the next two weeks.

What writer of today, what author of the current classic, could expect such attention after his death? There is, to be simple about it, nobody. There never was anybody. When Shakespeare died it may not even have been noticed in the press. Since then obits have been growing but none so long as that of Dickens.

When The Old Curiosity Shop was running serially in a London weekly paper and the next issue came by steamer to New York long lines of people were waiting for the ship to come in. Before the anchor was weighed they were shouting across the strip of water separating the boat from the dock. "Did Little Nell die?" they cried. "Oh, she mustn't die!" The telegraph had not brought the news, the telestar did not have the picture, but they had to know. The fate of Little Nell was bound up with their own.

That was a famous book, readers of today. Use the current Sunday Book Section to light the fire with and the latest crop of classics will go up in smoke. But Little Nell and Paul Dombey and the Cherryble brothers and Nicholas Nickleby and Oliver Twist will live on. Such is the power of the printed word when it really has power.

SAUGERTIES JAYNEES INSTALL — The Saugerties Jaycees-Jaynees Installation banquet took place Saturday, June 6, at Governor Clinton Hotel. BRIDESMAIDS COSTUMES KEPT SECRET UNTIL WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a 17-year-old girl, a senior in high school. My cousin has asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding. I happily accepted, and went last week to see the gowns.

My problem is that I would like to wear this gown to both my senior prom and the wedding. The trouble is the wedding date is several weeks after the prom. My mother says that I shouldn't wear the gown to the prom first as something could happen to it. My friends and my father say to wear it to the prom because I am paying for it and it is mine to wear when I choose.—Louise

Dear Louise: Don't. Your mother is right, the gown could be soiled or damaged. Eut, more than that, it would be inexcusably inconsiderate to wear it before the wedding. The costumes of the bride and her attendants are always kept as a surprise for her wedding day, and you would be justifiably criticized if you spoiled the surprise by wearing the dress to the prom. It is your to do with as you wish after the wedding, not before.

Beauty Salon Specialist
Counts on Tips

Dear Mrs. Post: I am having some hair removed from my face by electrolysis. There is only one operator doing this work in the beauty salon. The price is $10 for a half-hour treatment. My treatments are expected to go to about $200. Do I tip this operator, and if so, when?—Roberta

Dear Roberta: Rather than tip the operator each time, tip her 10 to 15 per cent of the total cost at the end of the treatments. Although she is a specialist, she is an employee and undoubtedly counts on tips to augment her salary.

Miss Barbara-Anne Connelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Connelly of 270 North Manor Avenue, Kingston, became the bride of Joseph Kenneth Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Cohen of 70 North Front Street, Kingston, Saturday, June 13 at Temple Emanuel, Kingston.

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. John Parke provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums, white pompons and snapdragons decorated the Temple and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire silhouette gown of imported French Beauvais embroidered silk organza. Fragile organza petals were strewn throughout the gown. Her French illusion, bouffant, floor-length veil, forming a train, was also petal trimmed. She carried a colonial nosegay of white snapdragons and baby's breath, accented with a vine and tied with white satin ribbon.

Kathleen Coughlin of Sunset Garden Apartments, Kingston, was maid of honor in a formal gown of Italian silk in shades of pink and styled in straight lines with a wide hemline flounce. She carried two shades of pink snapdragons and baby's breath tied with pink satin ribbon.

Dr. Paul Pasternack of Cherry Hill, N.J. served as best man. Ushers were Jack Siller, Kingston; and Jay Kenik, New York.

A reception for 200 guests was held at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride chose a brown and white Italian cotton outfit with matching accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Academy of St. Ursula and Elizabeth Seton Junior College, Westchester, attended Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion and Merchandising in New York. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College, will be a senior at Massachusetts College of Optometry in September.

The couple will reside at 856 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass., as of September.

The Rev. Reginald T. Edwards, former pastor of Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church, now retired, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Musical selections included favorites of the bride and groom and the songs played for their parents' weddings. Arrangements of gladioli and daisies decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown which she had designed, styled with a high lace collar, long full gathered sleeves, a full skirt with a wide lace border. She wore a daisy crown headpiece and carried a bouquet of daisies.

Miss Robin Sorrento of Piermont was maid of honor in a full length yellow gown with long sleeves and a high lace collar. A cluster of yellow daisies served as her headpiece and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Richard A. Swithers, Kingston, was best man for his brother. Ushers were William Parker, Kingston; and William Behrens of Falls Church, Va.

A reception for 75 guests was held at the Senate Room of Kirkland Hotel, Kingston.

The bride received her BA degree in English from State University of New York at Albany. Her husband was awarded his BS degree in Aeronautics and Astronautics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Both will attend graduate school in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Swithers will reside at 23 Concord Avenue, Somerville, Mass. when they return from their wedding trip to Bermuda.

Miss Suzanne Stratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stratton of Shokan, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert Joseph Barthel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Barthel of Harwich Street, Kingston, Saturday, June 13 at St. Mary's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Theodore Riccobono, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white and yellow gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire style gown of satin faced organza styled with a bodice and full sleeves of peau d'ange lace. Matching lace motifs trimmed the A-line skirt which terminated in a chapel length train edged with lace. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to a petaled headpiece edged with seed pearls and centered with aurora crystals. She carried a colonial bouquet of white, yellow and mint green carnations, tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. George Sanford of Kirkwood was matron of honor for her sister in a maize and green checked gingham gown, fashioned with empire bodice and puffed sleeves. The neckline and A-line skirt featured ruffles of self fabric. She wore a stylized headpiece of daisies to which was shirred a green tulle flirtation veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and mint green marguerites tied with mint green ribbon.

Attendants were Miss Virginia Palumbo, Glasco; and Miss Elizabeth Ann different congressional light on the proposed merger than in the case of professional football when those players supported such a move.

Kennedy was doubtful that a quick congressional action might be obtained.

"It's a problem of time," he explained. "This is an election year which probably means an abbreviated Congress and there already are a number of bills in the hopper.

"Also, Congress will have to be convinced that the merger is in the best interest of professional basketball and the public.

"It's possible it could be done this year."

Under the proposed plan, if approval is received from Congress and both leagues this year, some portions of the merger would go into effect immediately.

As soon as the merger is approved, plans call for a "world championship" playoff following the close of the next season; inter-league pre-season exhibition games the next year and a common draft after the end of the next season.

grabbed the ball, fell and tried to throw home in time to force Meyer. But it was too late — Meyer scored the winning run. For Kingman it was only his third hit in 26 plate appearances.

The victory was Barr's 14th against two losses.

Gene Ammann, top hurler on the Seminole staff, pitched the semifinal victory over Texas Wednesday night and was not ready to pitch again Thursday. He was named the tournament's most valuable player.

The Seminoles' run came when Tom Porter singled with two outs and scored after pitcher Pat Osburn topped a grounder in front of the plate and Widman fired the ball past first base. Osburn's right knee bucked as he crossed the bag and he had to be taken off the field on a stretcher.

The plan calls for a single league consisting "initially" of 28 teams in 27 cities, with New York having two teams. Two more teams would be added prior to the time the single league schedule goes into effect, hopefully by 1973.

The plan calls for a single ABA clubs to each pay $1.2 million, over a 10-year period, to the present NBA clubs.

The two leagues warned of the need for speedy action by Congress.

"Several clubs are in serious financial difficulty," their joint statement said. "Since the inception of the ABA in 1967, every ABA club has incurred substantial losses in every year of operation.

"Likewise, in each of these same years, more than half of the NBA clubs have lost substantial sums.

By MORT LAFFIN

BOICEVILLE Jean Rich, 18-year-old senior at Onteora Central High School, won three out of the top four awards for athletic endeavor in the Girls Athletic Association. The awards were presented to Jean at the recent G.A.A. banquet, honoring outstanding members of the girls' physical education and intramurals program, as well as participants in sports on the varsity level.

Jean won the award for Outstanding G.A.A. member, voted on by the girls themselves, was voted the Outstanding Girl Athlete Award by the members of the school's physical education staff and was also given the department's Physical Education award for her overall outstanding performances.

The fourth major award, for Outstanding Leader, was won by Joyce Thayer. This award is voted by members of the Leaders' Club.

Ed. teacher Carol Okoren as petite, shy and determined, Jeanie, with the light brown hair also won a Fourth Award Key for highest accomplishment in intramurals; (Kathy Mellert and Mary Ann Viskocil were also recipients) a three-year service pin for participation in Leaders' Club; and took home varsity letters in soccer, hockey, basketball, volleyball, track and field.

An honor student who has had several college acceptances, Jean was also captain of several varsity and intramural squads. Although she has had various acceptances to various colleges, Jean is unsure at this time, according to Miss Okoren, as to her plans. But, may be planning a career in physical education.

"She has been outstanding in everything," said Okoren. "Jean has the determination to do almost anything. She is outstanding in varsity as well as intramural sports and has captained several squads. She is also an outstanding gymnast and is an honor student academically. She is unsure as to her future at this time. But, I'm sure she will excel at what ever she tries," concluded the teacher.

Jean, who is 5-foot-1 and weighs 97 pounds, is the daughter of David S. Rich of Lockhart, Fla. and Mrs. Marilyn Rich of Boiceville with whom she lives.

Your Volkswagen dealer proudly presents used cars that aren't "just like new."

There are enough guys pushing "just like new" used cars these days. So it should be refreshing to learn that we're pushing something a little different. Used cars without the fast talk. Used cars with nothing but a written guarantee to speak for them. And it says a lot. Because all the major working parts are covered 100%. We guarantee to repair or replace the engine, transmission, rear axle, front axle assemblies, brake system, electrical system, for 30 days or 1000 miles, whichever comes first, for absolutely nothing. We've already fixed what needed fixing during the inspection our trade-ins have to pass to get the guarantee in the first place. So we can afford to be so sure of our used cars. They're more like new than one of those "just like new" jobs.

Classy Avon Melody Scores at Mighty M

MONTICELLO — Determined to avenge her disappointing third place finish last week as the 3-5 favorite, Avon Melody left little doubt as to the class of the three-year-old Tar Boy filly. Levi Harner sprang her out of the gate and reached the quarter in :30.4. Giving way briefly to Instant Power (Al Burton) at the half, Harner was out and rolling again at the three-quarters in 1:34.2 and finished an eased-up winner by four lengths in 2:06. The home-bred Ted Zornow-owned filly scored her second victory in five money starts, reducing her mile record a full two seconds while returning a paltry $3.40 for the win. Finishing second was Imperial Liz (Ken Heeney) with Sharp Salute (Mario Marchi) in the show spot.

Carl Ernst changed his driving tactics with Miss Debater. Parked out every step of the mile in her last start only to fail by a slim nose, Ernst raced the mare from behind Thursday night, pulling her out of the three hole at the half and challenging Gideon S. (Dick Yakin) through a swift :30.1 third quarter. Easily beaten at the head of the stretch, the six-year-old Queen's Adios mare rallied to score a head victory over Gideon S. and Bettina Wick (Al Burton).

Reminiscent of her mother's (Miss Myrtle's First) front-pacing winning tactics, her handsome chestnut son of Tarport Count, Sid Allen's Corby, broke his maiden in convincing style winning by four lengths and in so doing entered the 2:10 list over a rain-dampened Monticello Raceway oval. Combined with the flashy grey gelding, Pleasant Nib, winner of the second race, the 5-1 daily double returned $29.80.

Driver Phil Corley gunned Sid Allen's Corby to the top at the start and never looked back. Taking advantage of a ridiculously slow half in 1:08, they stepped up the tempo for the final four furlongs to win eased up in 2:10 over Alton Tempo.

Tony Jacklin Leads Open

CHASKA, Minn. (UPI)—England's Tony Jacklin set sail today into the second round of the U.S. Open golf championship with a two-stroke lead—and unless the violent winds change, the Yanks floundering in his wake may never catch up. "It car blow even harder if it wants to—I don't care," declared the slender British Open champion who shot a one-under-par 71 in Thursday's opening round while not a single other player in the field of 150 could match or break par in the teeth of 41-mile-per-hour wind gusts. Jacklin, who found Thursday's swirling gusts "just like the seaside courses back home," had a two-stroke lead at the start of the second round over Mason Rudolph, Julius Boros, and Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez, and another stroke over three longshots in the field—Bobby Mitchell, Ray Crawford, and Tony Evans.

Sixty-nine players failed to break 80 in the "wind tunnel," among them Gary Player, who shot even 80 for the worst U.S. Open round of his career, and Jack Nicklaus, who had an 81, the worst open round of his career. Arnold Palmer, the other member of what used to be golf's "big three," just barley escaped the same fate with a 79.

Popular Trio To Appear at Local Church

The trio had their beginning here at Kingston three years ago and have grown in popularity ever since. Frank, who is an associate engineer at

Discipline Required, Says State Prosecutor

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's first prosecutor assigned to combat organized crime statewide says the job is vital and requires discipline.

"I think there is a crying need for it," said Broome County Judge Robert Fischer Thursday. "I think there is a crying need for it to be done in a certain way. In my mind, it's a quiet approach. You have to be better organized than the opposition to attain your purpose. That's going to be our next step."

He spoke at the Hotel Gotham, where he was installed as deputy attorney general in charge of a yet-to-be-named statewide task force to probe and prosecute organized crime.

Fischer, 52, said he had not expected to be approached for the $37,000-a-year position.

"Well, I was surprised," he said. "I had been busy on the bench and knew the legislation was going through and was very much in favor of it. And I hadn't really any idea that the governor would ever call on me."

$97,000 Stolen From Vermont Bank

ENOSBURG FALLS, Vt. (UPI)—Three gunmen apparently escaped across the Canadian border Thursday after staging what officials called the largest robbery in this area since Civil War days.

The three masked gunmen, two brandishing rifles and one a pistol, escaped with $97,000 from the Enosburg Falls National Bank.

They took the money from

Hillside Asks Fire Coverage Area Increase

RHINEB. — The Hillside Fire Protection District, in the southeastern part of the Town of Rhinebeck, will ask the Town Board at its next meeting to be allowed to take over a small section of the present Rhinebeck Fire Department territory.

The Town Board now contracts with the Rhinebeck Fire Department, under the Village of Rhinebeck's jurisdiction, and the Rhinecliff Fire Dept. The budgets must be ready by September.

The area in question has been considered a "no man's land," according to Joe Andrews, chairman of the Hillside Board of Fire Commissioners. State law mandates blanket coverage.

This area is closer to Hillside's facilities than to Rhinebeck's. Hillside currently has a contract with Hyde Park for a portion of this area in Rhinebeck would increase the revenue of the fire district.

Short Circuit Alarm Alerts City Firemen

KINGSTON — Three fire units responded to an alarm at 9:50 p.m. Thursday after a resident reported strong odors in the cellar of her home and the electric lights were flashing.

On arrival at the home of Dorothy Qualitieri at 29 Brewster Street firemen discovered a short circuit in the electric breaker box near the furnace. The power was shut off and the woman was told to get an electrician to make repairs.

Engines 1 and 3 and Truck 1 responded to the call in charge of Deputy Chief Hugh Greer.

Florida Man Jailed 3 Days On DWI Charge

Thruway troopers said Robert J. Maurizi of Fort Lauderdale, took the breathalyzer test. He pleaded guilty before Town Justice Charles Link and was sentenced to the Greene County jail for three days. Trooper J. B. Fox made the arrest.

1. To re-zone a tract of land and the premises known and designated as eight (8) acres, rear of the Wilbur tract in the First Ward from a "R-1" designation to a "R-6" designation. (Multiple Residence).
2. Amend Section 3-1.1.5.1. Any pool which exceeds 2 ft. or 24 inches of water in depth, shall not be erected nearer than 5 ft. to any property line and in case of a corner lot, not nearer than 10 ft. to any property line on street side of lot.

Paraphrase II, III, IV — remain the same.

Article V to read: All existing pools must comply within 30 days from date of signing by the Mayor.

Section VI to read as follows: All metal parts of any pool such as ladder, diving board, filters, etc., which are connected to the electrical system, must be installed and properly grounded according to the Electrical Code, by a licensed electrician.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Project No. 690
Town of New Paltz
Highway Department Buildings
Pioneer Trail
New Paltz, New York

The Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster, State of New York, invites sealed bids for GENERAL CONSTRUCTION WORK, HEATING AND VENTILATING WORK, PLUMBING WORK, and ELECTRICAL WORK for the construction of the Town of New Paltz Highway Department Buildings.

Separate sealed proposals will be received by the Town Clerk of the Town of New Paltz, New York, until 2:00 P.M. on June 29, 1970 at Town Hall, 23 Plattekill Avenue, P.O. Box 551, New Paltz, New York 12561. All proposals received pursuant to this notice will be publicly opened and read.

This contract includes:
The construction of two (2) Highway Department Buildings located at Pioneer Trail, New Paltz, New York, in conformance with the attached specifications.

Specifications and Contract are subject to provisions of Chapter 690, Laws of the State of New York of 1959, Section 163-A of the General Municipal Law, and Section 220-E of the Labor Law of the State of New York.

Specifications, form of proposal and contract may be obtained at the office of the Architect, Ralph L. Gionta A.A.A., 35 Market Street, Poughkeepsie, New York, upon payment of $40.00 for each set.

Richard Miller, head cashier, said, "They were in the bank about four minutes and then took off in a car in the direction of Canada about five miles away."

The bank, one of two in this community of 2,500, customarily has about $100,000 on hand, officials said.

The Quebec provincial police, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the FBI and the U. S. Customs Service were called in to the case by Vermont state police, who had to come from 18 miles away in St. Albans.

Police said they believed the trio had fled into Canada.

"It would have been impossible to stop them," one state trooper said. "Enosburg Falls doesn't have a regular police force, only a village sheriff, and there are no constabulary stations on the road to Canada there."

Officials said the robbery was the largest in the area since Oct. 19, 1864, when Confederate soldiers under the direction of Capt. Bennett Young of Kentucky robbed at St. Albans bank of nearly $200,000 and made their getaway into Canada.

Given 9 Months Sentence in Car Theft Case

KINGSTON — Allen Edmond Macquin, 19, of West Union Street, was sentenced to nine months in the Ulster County Jail Thursday by Special City Judge George A. Beck, after pleading guilty to unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Macquin was apprehended by Claverack State Police on June 4 following a high speed chase along the Taconic Parkway in Columbia and Dutchess Counties. The defendant was accused of taking a car belonging to Raymond Fulton of New Paltz, while the car was parked in the Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Dear Abby

Is Hubby Cheating?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very good looking and is on the lying side of 50. He doesn't look like the swinging type, but I wouldn't put a thing past him. He gives a rather attractive, youngish divorcee, who works in his office building, a ride home nearly every evening. He doesn't accept any pay, but he does sometimes stop at her apartment for a drink (he says) now and then.

He's never more than half an hour late in getting home. Do you think he could be unfaithful to me in half an hour?

CAL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I don't know. He's your husband, lady. Could he?

DEAR ABBY: Leonard and I have been married for 2 years. We plan to go east this summer (we live in California) to visit my grandparents and other relatives who have never met Leonard. They are good, but very conservative people.

My problem: Leonard has hair almost to his shoulders. I think he should cut it before he goes east. His hair has never been a sore point between us, but I feel that if he cuts it before he goes, he will make a better impression on my relatives. Leonard and I talked about it, and he doesn't want to cut his hair. He says if I loved him I wouldn't ask him to cut his hair. I say it will grow back in time, and it's not too much to ask. Can you help us reach a decision?

DEAR CAL: Since Leonard doesn't want to cut his hair, don't ask him to cut it. For the sake of making a "better" impression, you are asking him to make a false one.

DEAR ABBY: I have some friends on the mainland who give my name and telephone number to every Tom, Dick and Harry from their hometowns who come over here on vacations.

When these strangers call me with "regards" from our mutual friends, I am always very friendly on the phone, but I know they are disappointed when I don't offer to "show them around" or entertain them in some way. But Abby, I just can't do it. I have enough relatives and friends of my own who come here, and with a busy husband and four children (two toddlers) I can't be an unofficial tourist guide for strangers. Altho I feel no obligation to people I don't even know, I feel guilty when I say "Good-bye."

How would YOU handle this situation?

BUSY IN HONOLULU
DEAR ABBY: Just as you're handling it. And you needn't feel guilty. It's presumptuous for one to give your name and telephone number to every "Tom, Dick and Harry," without your permission.

DEAR ABBY: My brother was in World War II. Fortunately, he returned home safely, but I have always felt a little guilty because I hardly ever wrote to him while he was away.

Now his son is in Vietnam, and I am still pretty bad at letter writing, but I have found the perfect solution. I send him the local Sunday newspaper. It costs only $2.50 every two months. He loves it. And says it's like a letter from "home," and I am so happy that I am the one who is able to give it to him.

DEAR ABBY: Beautiful! (I'll bet this is one letter the editor doesn't cut out!)

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Code of Hammurabi was written during the reign of King Hammurabi of Babylon. The code served as Hammurabi's amendment to the common law. Persons breaking the code often received the death penalty, and occasionally the offender was treated as he had treated the victim. Imprisonment was considered too expensive, corrupting to the prisoner and a hardship to his dependents.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DESOLATE: (Q.) I'm in love with a guy who doesn't seem to know I exist. I had a chance with him once. Last year he asked me to go with him. I wanted to, but he was going with one of my friends then and I didn't want to be unfair to her.

I just sort of liked him then. Now, I love him, and I'm miserable.—One Who Loves in Bangor, Maine.

(A.) If he's not going with your friend any longer, start smiling at him and showing him that you exist. Be friendly. Tell him you're sorry you missed knowing him better last year.

If he has any interest at all in you now, a little positive warmth from you should get some action from him in a few weeks. If it doesn't you'll know where you stand and can realistically put him out of your mind and put someone else in.

FROZEN OUT: (Q.) What is wrong with a boy who invites you to a beach party and then ignores you? Wayne invited me. I knew no one there except him and his friend Billy. If it hadn't been for Billy, I might still be sitting on that beach.—Mistreated in Eureka, Calif.

(A.) Perhaps Wayne invited you just because he thought he had to invite someone, perhaps he invited you for Billy, perhaps he's just a lout. Whatever it was, he fouled things up.

In any event, too, you'll know what to expect if he invites you again. So, say no.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Economic Squeeze Hitting TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The economic squeeze that is shrinking the family's pocketbook is also hitting the television networks. They are reacting the way the average citizen does: looking for places to economize.

Television's austerity budgets probably will not be noticeable until fall, if then, but the 1970-71 season promises to be difficult. Cigarette advertising which totals as much as $250 million a year will disappear after New Year's Day. There are hopes of attracting new sponsors to fill the void, but other corporations also are watching their budgets.

CBS is on an especially vigorous economy effort. Omitted from next season's schedule will be the network's expensive but prestigious "CBS Playhouse" series of three or four original dramas; "CBS Children's Playhouse," each of which costs as much as an adult dramatic production, and the long-playing "Young People's Concerts."

NBC's "On Stage" series of original dramas has lost its insurance sponsor and unless another happens along, it will be among the missing next fall.

All networks think twice about replacements for executives and other personnel. Contracts of three NBC News producers which expired in recent months have not been renewed, including those of George Vicas who has been turning out documentaries in Europe and Al Morgan, former "Today" producer who has been developing new projects.

Both NBC and ABC says that their program schedules will not be affected by economies. While CBS is expected to cut its number of specials, NBC and ABC, which usually has fewer spe-

Pattern Has Hope For City's Future

By JON POWERS

NEW PALTZ
Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress officials see some hope for the City of Kingston following preliminary reports that the urban population blight has extended into Ulster County's largest city.

Pattern for Progress officials blame on the shortage of adequate housing. An optimistic Donald Knorr, however, said that Kingston has certain advantages not shared by other Mid-Hudson urban centers — including Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Beacon — that should cause a noticeable rally in the city's fading population figures.

According to a Pattern for Progress study, there is a projected need for over 13,000 new housing units in the Mid-Hudson region per year during the 1970's but that only 5,000 will actually be constructed. Knorr said that the Department of Housing and Urban Development is currently exploring the feasibility of mass producing group housing units in order to satisfy the anticipated need. This plan, however, is not expected to go into effect for several years which indicates that Kingston's chances for an immediate miracle are slim. But it does appear as though the city's chances of ultimate survival in the race for forests and fresh air are taking a turn for the better.

Ellenville Road Boss Defends Position

Angry responding to statements made by Wawarsing Town Supervisor Frank W. Harkin concerning the operation of the Town Highway Department at a recent Town Board meeting, Highway Superintendent Karl T. Fleckenstein recently blasted back at the Town Board for failing to place the blame where it belongs.

Fleckenstein's comments defending his position and department were included in the "Letters to the Editor" section of an area newspaper. The fireworks were ignited at the June meeting of the Wawarsing Town Board. At that time, William Stoekeler called on the board to hasten construction work on the Old Greenfield Road west of the Village of Ellenville. Stoekeler stated that, in compliance with county highway regulations, he had constructed a bridge at a cost of $20,000 that led into his housing development. He added, however, that the town assured him the road would be repaired five years ago but that no progress has been made to date. Stoekeler was told, however, that the Town Board had no jurisdiction over the Superintendent of Highways because it is an elected position. Harkin then added that he was "beginning to believe that the highway superintendent should be appointed so he would come under direct control of the board."

Following this statement, Harkin appointed a three-man commission to work with Fleckenstein and to study the policies and working conditions of the Highway Department. The three members of the committee, which Harkin emphasized was not an investigative body but rather an administrative assistance program for the superintendent and his department, is comprised of Councilman DeLoise Craft, Franklin Sahler and Frank Greco. The committee was ordered to report their findings within 30 days.

Several days later, Fleckenstein leveled a barrage of criticism at both Harkin and the Town Board. He charged that he was tired of having the buck passed to him and that it should, instead, be passed "back where it belongs." Fleckenstein also cited "political promises" that were not made by him, but that he was expected to fulfill.

Fleckenstein also cited the inadequate facilities that he and his men must work with. He termed his equipment "junk" and called the town barn "a disgrace," and added that he has petitioned the Town Board for new equipment but that his requests have been "pigeonholed."

The Highway Superintendent also criticized the Board's decision not to pay his men time and a half for overtime. He said that many of his men had
